

SCHOOL of
ADVANCED STUDY
UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

PROFESSOR GREG CRANE

17 May 2016, 17.30–19.30, roundtable discussion followed by a reception

Global philology, Greco-Roman studies, and classics in the 21st century

During May and June, Greg Crane, Humboldt Professor of the Humanities at the University of Leipzig, will be lecturing and holding events around the UK on the theme: Greek, Latin and Digital Philology in a Global Age. The first of these events will take place on 17 May (5.30 –7.30pm) at Senate House, room 349 and will be a round table discussion with Dr Imre Galambos (Cambridge), Professor Eleanor Robson (UCL), Dr Sarah Savant (Aga Khan University), Dr Michael Willis (British Museum). It will explore the question of what classics can realistically mean in a century where China, India (with its six official classical languages), and the various nations of the Arabic and Persian-speaking world play an active role in shaping global cultures. It will be followed by a reception.

The full programme is listed on the next page and also available on the website, which will be updated.

Venue: Room 349, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU

For more information: Visit bit.ly/stleecrane or email sas.events@sas.ac.uk

20 May 2016, 16:00–17:30

Europe, Europeana and the Greco-Roman world

Venue: University of Glasgow, Glasgow G12 8QQ

23 May 2016, 13:00–14:00

Epigraphy workshop: what are the possibilities for epigraphic (and papyrological) sources in a digital age?

Venue: First floor seminar room, Oxford University Faculty of Classics, 66 St Giles, Oxford, OX1 3LU

24 May 2016, 14:00–16:00

Seminar: what would a smart edition look like and why should we care?

Venue: Oxford University, main lecture theatre, Faculty of Classics, 66 St Giles, Oxford, OX1 3LU

27 May 2016, 12:00–13:30

Seminar: Greek into Arabic, Arabic into Latin, and reinterpretation of what constitutes Western civilisation

Venue: University of Manchester, Oxford Rd, Manchester M13 9PL

1 June 2016, 17:30–18.30

Digital philology and Greco-Roman culture as the grand challenge of reception studies

Venue: Durham University, seminar room, Department of Classics and Ancient History, 38 North Bailey, Durham DH1 3EU

3 June 2016, 16:30–18:00

Philological education and citizenship in the 21st century

Venue: Room 234, School of Advanced Study, University of London, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU